Mr. Enoch D. Fuller, Secretary of State,
State House,
Concord, N. H.

Dear Mr. Fuller:

With respect to your inquiry of January 18th asking whether or not in the case of a firm whose members are to appear as lobbyists or legislative counsel each member of the firm who is to act in this capacity should register and pay the fee or may one member sign for the entire firm, section 27 of chapter 9 of the Revised Laws requires registration by any person who shall be employed for a consideration for the described purposes. Accordingly, each person in a firm who actively is employed for a consideration to appear as lobbyist or legislative counsel for a consideration must enter his appearance and complete the required information in the register.

It is not sufficient for one person to sign for the entire firm. Each person must enter his own appearance. If it is proposed to lobby or act as legislative counsel for an employer not listed on the original registration such registered legislative counsel may amend his registration or file a new registration for said varied employment without additional fee.

Very truly yours,

George F. Nelson
Assistant Attorney General
